

FOREWORD

Sterilized from emotion, hate crime, also called bias crime, is those offenses motivated in part or singularly by personal prejudice against others because of a diversity—race, sexual orientation, religion, ethnicity/national origin, or disability. The FBI Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program’s responsibility regarding hate crime is to provide a reliable set of statistics through the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. Through this program, law enforcement agencies nationwide voluntarily submit data about hate crimes within their jurisdictions (i.e., the number of incidents, offenses, victims, and offenders) for publication in the annual report, Hate Crime Statistics. Though law enforcement agencies need only report data for one month of a year to be included in this publication, most agencies that participate in the Program submit four quarters of data. In 2000, a total of 91.9 percent of all contributing agencies submitted four quarters of data. All data reported by law enforcement agencies are presented in this publication, free of the nuances that many factions of society impose upon the subject.

The uses for hate crime data vary widely among the different sectors of society. The statistics may assist law enforcement agencies in addressing potentially problematic issues for their particular locales or provide lawmakers with justification for certain legislation. The data may supply the media with credible information or simply show hate crime victims that they are not alone. Analyses of these data can also aid researchers in determining trends in hate crimes. Whatever the use of the statistics may be, the goal of this publication is to enable these data users to create an awareness about hate crime and advance the study of this complex facet of crime.

INTRODUCTION

Background

With the passage of the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990, Congress mandated the collection of information about crimes motivated by a bias against a person's race, religion, sexual orientation, and/or ethnicity/national origin. Under the commission of the Attorney General and with the aid of several local and state law enforcement agencies already investigating and collecting information about hate crimes, the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program developed a data collection system for that purpose. Hate Crime Statistics, 1990: A Resource Book was the first publication that made available the hate crime data collected in 1990 by 11 individual states. Once the national UCR Program implemented a uniform data collection method, the 1992 edition of Hate Crime Statistics premiered the data reported by law enforcement agencies across the Nation.

Bias against persons with disabilities became an element of hate crime data collection with the enactment of the Violent Crime and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, which amended the Hate Crime Statistics Act. (Actual collection of data from disability bias-motivated crimes began on January 1, 1997.) Another amendment followed in July 1996 when the Church Arson Prevention Act was signed into law, removing the sunset clause from the original statute and permanently extending the data collection mandate. The FBI shares with each law enforcement agency that is a voluntary participant of the Program its commitment to make hate crime data collection a permanent part of the UCR Program.

Collection Design

The goal of the Hate Crime Statistics Act and its subsequent amendments is to capture information about the type of bias serving as the motivating factor of a hate crime, the nature of the offense, and the number and types of the victim(s) and offender(s). While identifying the criteria that distinguish hate crimes from other offenses, the parties involved in the developmental phase of the Hate Crime Data Collection Program recognized that hate crimes are not separate, distinct crimes; instead, they are traditional offenses motivated by the offender's bias. An offender, for example, may damage or vandalize property because of his/her bias against the owner's (victim's) race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity/national origin, or disability. Therefore, rather than create new crime categories, Program developers felt that collecting additional information about crimes currently being reported to the UCR Program would fulfill the directives addressed in the Hate Crime Statistics Act as amended.

Because motivation is subjective, it is difficult to know with certainty whether a crime was the result of the offender's bias. Law enforcement investigation is imperative in that it must reveal sufficient evidence as to whether or not the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias. For this reason, the success of the Program rests with the law enforcement officers who determine that a bias motivation does indeed exist and forward this information to the national Program so that the law enforcement community and others may learn from it.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriffs' Association, the former UCR Data Providers' Advisory Policy Board (now part of the Criminal Justice Information Services Advisory Policy Board), the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, and the Association of State Uniform Crime Reporting Programs have all endorsed the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. Without their support and law enforcement's voluntary data collection, any effort toward the successful implementation of the Program would be futile.

Participation

In 2000, nearly 17,000 law enforcement agencies nationwide reported data to the UCR Program. A total of 11,690 law enforcement agencies in 48 states and the District of Columbia submitted summary or incident-based reports to the Hate Crime Data Collection Program. The table below shows the number of agencies represented within each population group and the extent of the population covered. Of the agencies participating in this Program, most sent their data to their respective state UCR Programs (see Appendix) that, in turn, forwarded the state's information to the national Program. Participating agencies in states without state UCR Programs sent their data directly to the FBI. Collectively, these agencies represented 236.9 million people in the United States, 84.2 percent of the population. Though the reports from these agencies are insufficient to allow a valid national or regional measure of the volume and types of crimes motivated by hate, they offer perspectives on the general nature of hate crime occurrence.

The law enforcement community has long recognized that valid information is central to developing effective measures to deal with crime; the same is true for bias-motivated crime. Through the collection of local hate crime statistics, law enforcement agencies have the ability to heighten the awareness and the understanding of bias-motivated crimes both locally and nationwide.

METHODOLOGY

Data Reporting

In accordance with the Hate Crime Statistics Act and its subsequent amendments, the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program compiles data regarding crimes motivated by racial, religious, disability, sexual-orientation, and ethnicity/national origin biases. Law enforcement agencies report hate crime occurrences to the UCR Program using the Quarterly Hate Crime Report form or the hate crime data element for the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS). The Quarterly Hate Crime Report form consists of a quarterly summary report and an incident report for each bias-motivated incident. The form is typically used by agencies that report their data by using summary guidelines. Agencies participating in NIBRS are able to report via magnetic tape an offender's bias motivation using the hate crime data element in their NIBRS submissions. Individual agencies and state UCR Programs that use personal computers for data collection and storage may submit hate crime data on disks.

Data Collection

Criminal incidents can involve more than one offense, victim, and/or offender. For counting purposes, one offense is counted for each victim of a crime against the person. One offense is counted for each occurrence of crime against property and crime against society, regardless of the number of victims. The total number of victims in a given incident is the sum of victims associated with each offense that took place within the incident.

Hate crime data are collected for 11 offense categories. Murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, aggravated assault, simple assault, and intimidation are classified as crimes against persons. Robbery, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, and destruction/damage/vandalism of property are classified as crimes against property.

In NIBRS, the hate crime data element applies to all 46 Group "A" Offenses, which include the previously mentioned 11 offense categories. The remaining 35 Group "A" Offenses not listed are reported in this publication as other or as crimes against society, whichever is appropriate.

Data Compilation

Once the national UCR Program receives the data, the Program staff compile these data in tables and discuss them in narrative comments that address the volume and types of bias-motivated criminal incidents. In particular, Section I provides various tabular presentations of the incidents reported to the FBI. It also addresses the specific offenses, types of victims, and known offenders' races. The first line of the title of each table presents in boldface type that table's unit of count, i.e., incident, offense, victim, known offender. Section II furnishes individual state and agency information, including the number of quarters the agency reported data to the national Program.

Data Publication

To be included in this publication, law enforcement agencies must have submitted data for at least one month of the calendar year. The published data, therefore, do not necessarily represent complete 12 months, or four quarters, of reporting for every agency listed. In 2000, 91.9 percent of the reporting agencies contributed data for all four quarters. Data users should exercise caution in attempting direct comparisons of hate crime totals among agencies because many variables not mentioned in this publication affect the volume and type of crime from place to place.

SECTION I

Hate Crime Statistics, 2000

A total of 11,690 law enforcement agencies in 48 states and the District of Columbia reported 8,063 bias-motivated criminal incidents (8,055 single-bias and 8 multiple-bias incidents) to the FBI in 2000. The incidents consisted of 9,430 separate offenses, 9,924 victims, and 7,530 known distinguishable offenders. According to the data collected, 53.8 percent of the 8,055 single-bias incidents were motivated by racial bias, 18.3 percent by religious bias, 16.1 percent by sexual-orientation bias, 11.3 percent by ethnicity/national origin bias, and 0.5 percent by disability and multiple biases. (See Table 1.)

Incidents and Offenses

For Hate Crime Data Collection Program purposes, the term single-bias incident refers to any hate crime incident in which all offenses involved in the incident were perpetrated as a result of the same bias motivation. A multiple-bias incident is any hate crime incident in which two or more of the offenses were committed as a result of two or more bias motivations.

In 2000, 65.0 percent of the 9,430 hate crime offenses reported were attributed to crimes against persons. Crimes against property made up 34.4 percent of the total, and crimes against society composed 0.6 percent. (See Tables 2 and 11.)

As in previous years, intimidation was the most frequently reported hate crime, accounting for 34.9 percent of the total hate crime offenses reported. Destruction/damage/vandalism of property made up 29.3 percent of the total; simple assault, 17.1 percent; and aggravated assault, 12.6 percent. The remaining offenses accounted for 6.1 percent. (See Table 2.)

Within the offense type crimes against persons, intimidation was the most frequently reported offense; 73.5 percent of intimidation offenses with a known offender were committed by white offenders, and 11.2 percent were committed by black offenders. Additionally for intimidation offenses, race was unknown for 11.4 percent of the known offenders. Further, within the offense type crimes against property, destruction/damage/vandalism was the most frequently reported offense; 57.2 percent of destruction/damage/vandalism of property with a known offender were committed by white offenders and 8.9 percent by black offenders. Race was unknown for 30.0 percent of the known offenders involved in destruction/damage/vandalism. (See Table 3.)

In 2000, 19 hate-motivated murders were reported to the national UCR Program by participating law enforcement agencies. Of this total, 10 of the murders were motivated by racial bias, 6 by ethnicity/national-origin bias, 2 by sexual-orientation bias, and 1 by religious bias. (See Table 4.)

According to the data received for racially-motivated single-bias incidents, there were 3,409 anti-black offenses committed; 2,346 of these were committed by known offenders. Of the 2,346 anti-black offenses where the offender was known, 1,981 offenses involved white offenders. Of the 1,050 anti-white offenses, 888 offenses were committed by known offenders. Of these 888 offenses, 527 offenses involved black offenders. (See Table 5.)

Victims

The term victim throughout this publication refers to a person, business, institution, or society as a whole, unless otherwise specified.

Data reported to the national UCR Program in 2000 showed that victims of racial bias accounted for 54.5 percent of all single-bias hate crime victims in 2000. Victims of religious bias comprised 17.2 percent of the single-bias victim total; victims of sexual-orientation bias, 15.7 percent; victims of ethnicity/national origin bias, 12.3 percent; and victims of disability bias, less than one-half of 1 percent. By specific bias motivation, anti-black accounted for 65.5 percent of the victims of racial bias, anti-Jewish bias represented 74.7 percent of victims of religious bias, anti-male homosexual bias composed 68.0 percent of those who were victims of sexual-orientation bias, anti-Hispanic bias made up 62.7 percent of the victim total for ethnicity/national-origin bias, and anti-physical disability accounted for 55.6 percent of victims of disability-bias crimes. (See Tables 1 and 7.)

Of the total 9,924 victims, 61.8 percent fell victim to crimes against persons; 37.6 percent, crimes against property; and 0.6 percent, crimes against society. (See Table 2.)

By victim type, 79.4 percent of the victims of the 8,055 single-bias incidents were persons; 3.7 percent, society/public; 3.4 percent, religious organizations; 3.3 percent, business/financial institutions; and 2.7 percent, government. The remaining 7.5 percent of the victim types were other/unknown/multiple. (See Table 8.)

A breakdown of the 9,430 offenses by victim type showed that 82.1 percent were committed against individuals, 3.3 percent were against society/public, 3.1 percent against business/financial institutions, 3.0 percent against religious organizations, and 2.4 percent against government. The remaining 6.1 percent were committed against other/known/multiple. (See Table 6.)

Offenders

For the purposes of the Hate Crime Data Collection Program, the term known offender does not imply that the identity of the suspect is known, but only that an attribute of the suspect is identified which distinguishes him/her from an unknown offender. The attribute referred to in this publication is the offender's suspected race.

Law enforcement agencies in 2000 reported a total of 7,530 known offenders were associated with the 8,063 incidents. By known offender's race, 64.4 percent were white, 18.7 percent were black, 1.4 percent were Asian/Pacific Islander, and 0.6 percent were American Indian/Alaskan Native. Further, 5.1 percent were multiracial, and the race of 9.7 percent was unknown. (See Tables 1 and 9.)

The column in Table 2 titled Known Offenders shows that the total number of offenders is 7,530. The sum of the entries under the same column is 7,872. Since some individuals committed more than one offense, 7,872 is actually the number of offenses committed by known offenders. The number of offenses that is committed by individuals who committed more than one offense is 342. The number of offenders who committed more than one offense is 326 (see footnote). The percentage of offenses committed by an individual more than once and the percent of offenders that committed more than one offense is the same, 4.3.

Out of the total 9,430 offenses, 83.5 percent were committed by known offenders; the remaining 16.5 percent of offenders are unknown. Known offenders who were involved in more than one offense committed 4.3 percent of the total offenses. Within the offense type of crime against person, intimidation accounted for 39.3 percent of the offenses in this category that were committed by known offenders. Further, destruction/damage/vandalism accounted for 65.9 percent of the crimes against property committed by known offenders. (See Table 2).

Locations

Data contributed in 2000 show that the highest percent of reported hate crime incidents, 32.1 percent, occurred in/on residential properties. Incidents committed on highways/roads/alleys/streets accounted for 17.9 percent of the total, 11.4 percent took place in schools and colleges, and 10.4 percent occurred at other/unknown locations. The remaining 28.2 percent of incidents were widely distributed among various locations. (See Table 10.)

<sup>1</sup>Because hate crime submissions have been updated, data in this table may differ from those published in Crime in the United States, 2000.

<sup>2</sup>The term victim may refer to a person, business, institution, or society as a whole.

<sup>3</sup>The term known offender does not imply that the identity of the suspect is known, but only that the race of the suspect is identified which distinguishes him/her from an unknown offender.

<sup>4</sup>A multiple-bias incident is a hate crime in which two or more offense types were committed as a result of two or more bias motivations.

<sup>3</sup>The term multiracial group is used to describe a group of offenders comprised of persons of more than one race.

SECTION II

Jurisdictional Hate Crime Statistics, 2000

Of the 11,690 law enforcement agencies that provided 1 to 12 months of data to the FBI's Hate Crime Data Collection Program, 16.2 percent reported that at least one hate crime occurred in their jurisdiction during 2000. The remaining 83.8 percent of participating agencies reported that no instances of hate crime occurred.

The data presented in Section II provide a state and agency breakdown of bias-motivated offenses. Table 12 supplies individual state totals for the number of participating agencies, the populations represented, the number of agencies submitting incident reports, and the number of incidents reported. Table 13 includes those agencies that submitted one or more hate crime incidents, and Table 14 lists those agencies that submitted reports indicating no instances of hate crime occurred. Both Tables 13 and 14 present data by state, with each state subdivided by agencies within cities, universities and colleges, suburban counties, rural counties, state police agencies, and other agencies when applicable. In an effort to provide data users with more complete information, Tables 13 and 14 also provide the number of quarters each agency contributed data to the national hate crime program.

As stated earlier, many variables not considered in this publication can affect the volume and type of crime from place to place. For this reason and because these figures do not represent 12-month totals for every agency listed, data users are cautioned against making direct comparisons among agencies.
