Summary

Varying media estimates of military forces in Iraq have raised concerns about the actual number of troops deployed in Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF). This report provides solely Department of Defense (DOD) statistical information on U.S. forces serving in Iraq. As of November 1, 2006, according to DOD, the United States had 147,796 troops stationed in Iraq — 124,266 active component and 23,530 National Guard or Reserves. For security reasons, DOD does not routinely report the composition, size, or specific destination of military forces deployed to the Persian Gulf. This report will be updated upon receipt of new DOD data. For additional information on U.S. forces, see CRS Report RL31701, Iraq: U.S. Military Operations, by Steve Bowman.

Force Levels

As of November 1, 2006, according to DOD, the United States had 147,796 military personnel deployed in Iraq. Of these, 124,266 were active component personnel and 23,530 were National Guard and Reserves. Figures 1 and 2 provide the distribution by armed service of active component personnel. These totals do not include 16,500 military support personnel in Kuwait, nor naval personnel aboard ships patrolling through the Persian Gulf.¹

On October 11, 2006, U.S. Army Chief of Staff General Peter J. Schoomaker announced a plan to maintain the current level of Army troops — about 120,000 — in Iraq through 2010. He emphasized that this was a plan that has “off-ramps,” allowing for adjustments, including reductions, along the way.² Additional information is available from DOD’s Directorate for Information Operations, which posts quarterly reports on casualties and worldwide active duty military personnel deployments by region and country.

Comparative Operation Iraqi Freedom U.S. Force Levels. Overall U.S. force levels in Iraq have been declining since 2005, particularly the Reserve Component. Based on DOD statistics, Figures 3, 4, 5 and 6 provide comparative data on both active and reserve component force levels since November 2005. DOD officials have declined to project the timing or size of future force reductions, noting these will depend upon the security situation within Iraq.

Operation Iraqi Freedom Troop Rotations. On July 27 and September 25 2006, the Department of Defense announced its latest scheduled troop deployment and adjustments to rotations to Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF). Combined with earlier DOD announcements, the remaining 2006 schedule for the affected Army and Marine Corps units is summarized in Table 1 below. Rotations for Army units normally last for one year, whereas Marine Corps units operate on a seven-month rotation. Additionally in its July 27 press release, the Department of Defense announced the extension of deployment in Iraq of the 172nd Stryker Brigade Combat Team for up to 120 days.
