Homeland Security: A Topical Comparison of H.R. 5710 with H.R. 5005

Summary

H.R. 5710 was introduced as a new vehicle for consideration of the proposal to establish a Department of Homeland Security, and for other purposes. H.R. 5005, a smaller bill, was previously passed by the House. On November 19, 2002, the Senate amended H.R. 5005, incorporating the provisions virtually identical to H.R. 5710. The House, on November 22, will consider H.R. 5005, as passed by the Senate, and is expected to adopt that language. The differences in the two versions are relatively few and are technical in nature.

On November 13, 2002, the House adopted H.Res. 600, as amended, a closed rule governing the consideration of H.R. 5710. Only one amendment was allowed under the rule (a definition change at Section 2(10)). House passage of H.R. 5710 came during the evening on a vote of 299-121 (Roll no. 477).

The Senate version is the text of Senate Amendment 4901, offered by Senator Thompson to H.R. 5005. Senate Amendments 4911 and 4983 were considered and rejected. Senate passage of H.R. 5005, on November 19, 2002, came on a vote of 90-9 (Record Vote No. 249).

The original purpose of this report was to provide an alignment of the sections H.R. 5005, as passed by the House and H.R. 5710, as passed by the House to show where the major similarities and differences were in terms of subjects addressed. Since the Senate has now passed H.R. 5005 and it is virtually identical to H.R. 5710, the report serves to demonstrate the expansion of the legislation which will prevail with that sent by the House to the Senate earlier this year.

A series of reports discussing the provisions of the bills as passed can be found on the CRS Web page at [<http://www.crs.gov/products/browse/is-homelandsecurity.shtml>] and by accessing the listing of CRS products through the Legislative Information System (LIS) at H.R. 5710. The comparison between H.R. 5005, as passed, and one of the pending Senate substitutes in CRS Report RL31513 includes content discussion of most of the provisions. Contact information for CRS analysts who work in specific related subject areas can be accessed online from the CRS Web page, which is available at [<http://www.crs.gov/experts/experts-dhs.shtml>].
